

Smelt Jamboree Will Be Held This Evening

TONIGHT'S PROGRAM
6:30 p. m.—Jaycees' smelt dinner for jamboree queens and visitors at House of Ludington.
8:15 p. m.—Official opening of smelt season on Escanaba river, near No. 1 dam.

Sportsmen from Chicago, Milwaukee and other cities are here to attend the Escanaba Smelt Jamboree and scoop up the silvery fish from Delta county streams tonight. Acme Newspictures sent Tom Shafer, Harvey Johnson and Frank Klimek, photographers of the Chicago bureau, to take pictures of the widely publicized fishing celebration, sponsored by the Escanaba Junior Chamber of Commerce and the city recreation department.

Run On Valentine Creek
Accompanied by John Chriske, district conservation supervisor, the three cameramen visited the Escanaba, Days, Sturgeon, Little Fishdam rivers, and finally found what they wanted on Valentine creek in the Garden peninsula.

About fifty fishermen were pulling up 10 to 30 smelt with each dip of the net. Boxes were quickly filled and hauled by tractor to the main highway. Some dinnetters ran out of their supply of 150-pound capacity boxes, and deposited the smelt in piles along the creek bank to be picked up this morning.

Five Cents a Pound
Fishermen were getting five cents a pound for smelt delivered to the packing stations last night, and four cents at the stream. The catch last night was slightly below the 12-ton mark on Valentine creek the night before.

Lowering of the temperature last night impeded the nocturnal migration of the smelt to their spawning beds. Only the males, or "milkers", are spawning now. When the females start moving upstream, the run will be really under way. Peak of the run is expected next weekend, about one week behind schedule.

Radio Reports On Catches
The conservation department headquarters in Escanaba will remain open until midnight tonight to inform fishermen what streams are having the heaviest runs, Supervisor Chriske said. Up-to-the-minute information may be obtained by telephoning No. 1952.

Conservation officers, riding in radio patrol cars, will report to the conservation headquarters at regular intervals. Officer Hugh Fisher will report by radio on activities at Valentine creek, Puffy creek and Garden creek; Earl Kaiser, at Sturgeon, Big and Little Fishdam rivers; John Mahar, at Rapid River, Tacosh, Squaw creek and Whitefish river; Clayton Brown, at Ford River and Escanaba river. Allen Tweedy will be stationed at headquarters.

Tonight's Activities
The Jaycees will entertain Mary Friets, queen of the jamboree, and members of her court, Betty Houle, Bernice Finn, Ruth Bullock and Donna Jensen, at a smelt dinner in the House of Ludington Marine Room at 6:30 tonight.

Queen Mary will officially open the Escanaba river to smelt fishing by dipping her net in the stream below the No. 1 dam, near the Pioneer Trail Park bridge, at 8:15 tonight. Music will be furnished by Chet Marrier's German band and there will be other festivities. Following this brief ceremony, the fishermen will go to the streams where the smelt are reported to be running.

Pope Pius Receives British Royal Couple

VATICAN CITY — (AP) — Pope Pius Friday received Princess Elizabeth of England and the Duke of Edinburgh in private audience, surrounded with Vatican pageantry.

The meeting was the third in more than a quarter of a century between a pontiff and members of England's royal house.

England's presumptive future queen wore a black veil and a black gown that reached to her slipped feet. Her only ornaments were a pearl necklace and a bracelet. She looked neither to right nor left as Swiss guards escorted her to the Clementine hall.

Her husband, Philip, was dressed in his naval officer's uniform. The audience with the pontiff lasted about half an hour. As the royal party emerged, some 500 students and directors of the commonwealth seminaries in Rome gave three rousing cheers. Elizabeth turned her head and smiled.

Bind Harris To Circuit Court

Hold Alleged Hit-Run Driver For Trial

Joseph Harris, 36, of Wilson, charged with hit and run and leaving the scene of an accident in connection with the death of Kay Langley, 13, of Spalding, yesterday was bound to Menominee circuit court for trial.

He was released on bond that was increased from $1,500 to $2,500.

Harris was arrested the night of April 3 a few hours after the Spalding girl was struck and two other young people were injured by a hit-run car as they walked along the roadside.

A license plate and door handle at the accident scene were clues that led officers to Harris' car, found abandoned a few miles away.

Gail Langley, 16, sister of the accident victim, sustained a leg fracture and is still receiving treatment in St. Francis hospital in Escanaba.

In a statement to Sheriff Edward Reindl of Menominee, Harris admitted that he recalled his car hitting something. He said he thought it was a dog.

Harris said he had a couple beers with friends shortly before the accident.

Cellar Dartball Team Cops Title

This is a "rags-to-riches" story about the Murphy Grocery women's dartball team.

It got started late during the season and held down the cellar position in the league. But, come tournament time, it reached the heights.

It took two straight games from the CYO in the first round and two out of three from Nelsons in the second round. Then it wound up by taking two straight from Dagenais groceries to win the championship.

"Shorty" Johnson won the tournament batting trophy with a mark of .405 for 15 hits.

In the civic league play Thursday night, Birds Eye Locals won three straight over the Firemen to displace the Escanaba Daily Press for the league title. Birds Eye won nine straight games to cop the title.

Teachers Meet With Vredevoe

Report Progress In School Survey

A preliminary report summarizing the citizenship program in Escanaba schools, and progress reports on other phases of the school needs survey, were presented here yesterday afternoon at a general meeting of Escanaba city school teachers.

The school needs survey is being conducted under sponsorship of the board of education by the bureau of school services, University of Michigan, with the cooperation of the teachers.

Dr. Lawrence E. Vredevoe, Ann Arbor, director of the bureau of school services, and a staff of consultants, met with the teachers at Junior High school.

The Whole Problem

"All of this work is valuable in its stimulation and improvement of the school program for the benefit of the young people of our community," Dr. Vredevoe said in citing the efforts of the teachers and local school committees.

Here with Dr. Vredevoe in presenting the preliminary report on the citizenship program in the public schools were consultants Ray Kehoe, Kent Leach, John Fields and Kenneth Vance.

John E. Lemmer, Escanaba superintendent of schools, said there is already evidence of the value of the survey now in progress. The parents and the public are now thinking of the school building program as a whole, rather than construction of only a new Senior High school, he said. Interest is also being aroused in other phases of the school program.

Plan of Action

George Rutwidge, assistant superintendent, expressed appreciation to the teachers comprising the school needs survey committees and suggested they "think through" the information being assembled so it can be translated into action in the year ahead.

George Grab, chairman of the citizenship division of the school survey, described the volume of work that went into the compilation of information summarized in the report on citizenship in the schools by the bureau of school services.

Edward E. Edick, Senior High school principal, chairman of the community survey work in connection with school needs; and Charles L. Folio, board of education member and chairman of the school history committee, reported progress in the work being done by their committees.

Objectives Cited

Miss Bernice Firkus is chairman of the language-art section of the survey, and L. Dick Schram is chairman of the health division of the survey. Information assembled by the health division committee has been submitted to the bureau of school services for summary.

Introduction to the summary on citizenship program in the public schools, by Chairman Grab, defines the objectives of that committee and the others in the school needs survey.

"The committee recognized that if this report was to have any value, teachers had to be factual, truthful and frank. We wanted no window-dressing. We wanted the picture as it actually is. We wanted the truth."

"It is possible that after we know what we are doing in Escanaba to promote citizenship we may want to analyze and reevaluate our practices and from these develop what we should be doing. Unless we know what we are doing and are self-critical, we can show no growth. Only people who are free and intelligent can afford to be self-critical."

Final Rites Sunday For William Britz

Funeral services will be held 3 p. m. Sunday in the Alto funeral home for William H. Britz, 68, of Lathrop, who died in his home there at 11 a. m. Thursday. He had been in ill health for the past year.

Born Oct. 19, 1885, in Lathrop, Britz lived in Escanaba and Cornell before returning to Lathrop in 1935. He had been a farmer and lumberman most of his life.

Surviving besides his wife are two brothers, John of Escanaba and George of Menominee, and several nieces and nephews.

Friends may call at the funeral home at 7 o'clock tonight.

Funeral services will be conducted tomorrow afternoon by the Rev. C. W. Middleton, Episcopal minister of Menominee, and burial will be in Lakeview cemetery.

Retired Woodsman, John Rossman, Dies

John Rossman, 88, a retired woodsman, died last night at the Lathrop convalescent home, 1117 Delta Ave., Gladstone, where he had been a patient since March when he fell across a hot stove in his cabin west of Brampton.

He was born April 5, 1863 in Prussia and had served in the Prussian army. He has no known relatives in this country.

The body is at the Kelley funeral home. Funeral services probably will be held Monday afternoon.

Playful Timber Wolf Queenie To Have Dog For Mate At Cusino

SHINGLETON, Mich. — (AP) — Queenie is a gentle sort of a female, with soft hair, big brown eyes and a kind of sly smile you'd remember.

She drools a bit, perhaps, and occasionally scratches; but she's a good time gal if ever there was one.

Queenie is one of the nicest timber wolves you'll meet anywhere.

By fact and legend, wolves are mean brutes that chase people in droshkys and howl hungrily in search of succulent humans. A lot of woodsmen will tell you there's nothing nastier than a timber wolf on the prowl.

That's what makes Queenie such a newsy beast.

She's as playful as a kitten and as loving as a befriended pup. Which brings us to the point. For love has a great deal to do with Queenie these days.

Biologist Seeks Data

Her present home in a pen in the Cusino wildlife experiment station in Upper Michigan's Hiawatha national forest. Wildlife experts are grooming Queenie to become the bride of a dog, just to see what will happen.

They hope, in this wise, to find out more about those creatures which resemble both dogs and wolves which hunters sometimes bring in for bounties.

To look at it more scientifically, this is called a hybridization experiment. The idea of cross-breeding a dog and a wolf was conceived by a young biologist named Albert Stebbler, formerly of Lake Linden, but now a graduate student at the University of Michigan.

Stebbler, who says there are only five or six pair of timber wolves left in the Upper Peninsula, thought it would be a good idea to accumulate some data about "dog-wolves."

The reason is partly economic. The state of Michigan pays bounties of $20 for female wolves and coyotes and $15 for males of those species.

Frequently, hunters bring in beasts that don't quite measure up to specifications. They're not dogs, and they're not wolves. And that stumps the state, which pays cash for 100 per cent wolves, and none other.

So, the biologists figure, if they can do some "controlled" experimenting they might come up with exact skull measurements and other features of cross-breeds that would help them resolve the problem.

Captured Near Hulbert

Then, too, the state just generally wants to know more about wolves and their relations. A similar program is being carried on with coyotes, as one of several experiments at the cusino station.

But to get back to Queenie. This slant-eyed pet was captured by a trapper about a year ago in a den near the Chippewa Big, and Ronald Nelson, trombone quartet, David Zerbel, Charles Wickman, David Gasman, and Roy Starrin. Brass sextet, John Haring, Arnold Johnson, Betty Nantell, Carl Bennett, David Gasman and Jim Mc Cormick.

Baritone vocal soloist, Bill Anderson; violin duet, Lois Hendrickson and Sara Dunathan; string quartet, Mary Braamse, Nancy Ostman, Betty Nantell and Nancy Duchaine; senior high string ensemble, Mary Braamse, Nancy Ostman, Charles Rose, Marion Steede, Mary Berglund, Nancy Duchaine, Rosemary Nault, Betty Nantell, Joan La Crosse, Mary Nelson, Mary Larsen, Donna Jensen, Bill Anderson, Maxine Koche and Marcia Weissert.

Piano accompanists for the Escanaba students are: Anne Aronson, Mrs. Clovis Colvin, Ruth Haven, Mary Ellen Niederauer, Nancy Ostman, Irma Paul and Roy Starrin.

Besides representing Escanaba in the above, the students listed will have the opportunity of hearing similar soloists and ensembles from other Upper Peninsula high schools throughout the day.

An evening program is also planned for the public on which will appear the outstanding performers of the day plus selections by the Northern Michigan College of Education band.

Robert S. Meyer, Mrs. Clara Karas Somers and Mrs. Clovis Colvin will accompany the students.

Plan Campaign For Clean-Up

Seek Elimination Of Fire Hazards

The spring clean-up campaign in Escanaba will begin Monday, April 16, and will continue through National Fire Prevention week May 7-12. Fire Captains Schrader and Bergeon have reported.

In connection with the clean-up campaign, Mayor Peter Logan has issued a proclamation urging the public cooperation in the program.

Emphasis in the campaign will be centered around the removal of fire hazards, particularly the winter accumulation of newspapers, magazines, discarded furniture in basements and attics and other rubbish.

Suggestions made by the fire department for the clean-up campaign include the following:

Dispose of all rubbish and particularly flammable materials. Clean dirty chimneys and heating plants. Recover worn roofs with fire-resistant materials.

Clean and repair electrical motors and appliances. Replace frayed extension cords.

Avoid use of explosive cleaning fluids. Clean yards and alleys, as well as interiors, to eliminate the threat of fire from outside sources.

Assistance of firemen in locating potential fire dangers in homes and offices has been offered by the fire department and anyone seeking such help is urged to call the fire captains.

A large group of musicians is participating in the first solo and ensemble festival at Northern Michigan college in Marquette. They are led by Robert Meyers, head of the public school music department.

Nine representatives of the high school student council are attending a citizenship conference at Iron Mountain high school, where there are discussions on topics of interest to councils. Those attending are: Janet Peterson, chairman, Casper Bartley, Mary Sue Fleming, Carolyn Johnson, Lorna Boucher, Bob St. Martin, Ramona Hale, Marlene Menard and Mary Braamse. Sponsors are B. B. Loveland and Miss Alice Potter.

Six cheer leaders are attending a conference at Kingsford high school, where Newt Lokken, coach of the University of Michigan cheerleaders, and several cheerleaders are giving demonstrations. Escanaba cheerleaders attending include Joyce Sundquist, Connie Gallagher, Bess Parker, Elaine Anderson, Barbara Flanagan and Mary Larsen. Sponsor is Ruby Blizel.

Winter Shipping Of Iron Ore Is Termed Success

IRON RIVER—Shipment of iron ore by rail during the winter months from Lake Superior mines has been termed successful by shippers and railroads, but the cost was slightly higher in moving approximately 1,000,000 tons.

The Sherwood, Spies and Wau-seca mines were among the west side properties shipping during the winter. The Sherwood had the largest tonnage.

Shipments started about Dec. 27 and were, for the most part, concluded on March 15.

Rail shipping sources estimated the winter movement cost at about 20 per cent more than lake shipment.

Shipping From Stockpiles

A large part of the added cost resulted from the necessity of thawing the frozen ore at the delivery points so it could be unloaded from the cars. Availability of cars was no problem.

The rail shipments of the past winter were termed an experiment by participants, and whether they will be resumed next December is conjectural.

Meanwhile, shipping of iron ore from the west side mines is continuing at a fast pace. All mines are shipping from the pockets and a few already have put stockpile power shovels into operation. Mines which already have made stockpile shipments are the Hiawatha, Bengal, Homer, James, Davidson and Buck.

Car Shortage

There was no stockpile activity yesterday because of a shortage of cars, but shipments from this course will continue in a day or two when empties are returned from Escanaba.

Ore shipments this year from the Lake Superior district are expected to be as large or larger than last year. The Defense Transport administration in Washington announced that three large cargo vessels from the Atlantic coast have been assigned to the Lake Superior ore fleet.

Cancer Drive To Open Monday

Quota For Delta County Is $3,000

The Delta County Cancer Society will on Monday begin a house-to-house solicitation in Delta county in its campaign to reach a $3,000 "fight cancer" goal.

Nationally the American Cancer Society, with which the Delta unit is affiliated, has designated April as the month to conduct a fund drive to continue the program of cancer research and educational service.

In Delta county cancer accounted for 15 per cent or 59 of the 327 deaths last year. The Delta county unit supplies free services ranging from dressings to cancer patients and the use of radium and educational material.

In Escanaba there will be no solicitation of business houses on Ludington street. Industries will be contacted by a special gifts committee.

The house-to-house drive will open Monday in all communities of the county.

Selection Of John MacInnis As Director Of Fair Is Wise Choice

THE decision of the U. P. State Fair board of managers to place active direction of the 1951 fair in the hands of its chairman, John MacInnis, of Sault Ste. Marie, is an appointment that commands public approval.

MacInnis is serving his third five-year term as a member of the fair board. He knows the inner workings of the fair, its virtues and its shortcomings better than anyone else. He is keenly interested in the fair and in maintaining its established reputation as an outstanding exposition. He is familiar with plans made for the 1951 fair and the work remaining to be done in preparation for the event next summer.

MacInnis has a warm personality that attracts friends and invites cooperation. He has been pledged the help and assistance of that vast army of workers, volunteers and paid employees, whose combined efforts make the fair the success that it is.

It is recognized by the board and managers and by others familiar with the operation of the U. P. State Fair over the years that the excellent direction of the

Let's Not Return To Days Of The Lash

THE Michigan state senate exercised extremely bad judgment in writing an amendment into the narcotics control bill that would restore the whipping post to the state's penal code.

In all probability the amendment will be stricken before final passage of the bill when sounder thinking prevails, but the effect is still bad. Certainly no one condones the sale of narcotics to minors. The penalty for such dastardly action should be severe, but let's not go back to the days of the lash and brutalities in our penal system. Senator Morris of Kalamazoo, who proposed postponement of action on the measure until next Wednesday, had the right idea when he suggested doubts that the senate wanted to approve "retrogressive" legislation if it thought the matter over.

Boxcar Shortage Is Defense Bottleneck

IN this day and age, decisions often must be made not between a right and a wrong course, but between two rights. That's especially true in a time of war or other crisis.

For instance, in World War II U. S. production officials were besieged with demands for steel needed for new plant facilities in the infant synthetic rubber industry. Since we were cut off from overseas supplies of natural rubber, directors of this program were able to make out a strong case.

But war output men couldn't give the rubber people all the steel they wanted, despite the program's critical standing. The reason: to have done so would have compelled taking steel from the escort destroyer building program—even more vital because these craft were needed to protect our sea lanes to Europe.

Tough choices like that are cropping up again in the present defense effort. One of them concerns railroad freight cars. In the last few months the nation has developed a serious car shortage that threatens to become worse. Right now we're averaging about 35,000 cars short every day.

That means 35,000 carloads of materials are ready for shipment each day but are not shipped because there is nothing in which to carry them.

U. S. industrial production is up 23 per cent over 1950, but the number of cars on hand is only 2 per cent greater than a year ago. Hence the pinch.

The railroads show their awareness of the problem. They've got 155,000 cars on order, as compared with just 26,000 this time last year. But their difficulties are complicated by the fact that thousands of old cars constantly must be taken off the rails as new ones are delivered. In February, for example 5,500 new cars went into service but 4,000 had to be scrapped.

The National Production Authority is far from blind to this dilemma. It is allotting increased amounts of steel to the car building program. March output was up to 6,500 cars from 5,500 in February, and NPA officials predict a 9,000-car total this month. The goal is 10,050 a month by June.

But it won't be easy sledding. They foresee a production bottleneck in car wheels, which could only be broken by adding new facilities in that field.

And even if that is somehow achieved, the nation faces continued industrial expansion and consequently heavier demand for rail transport. Higher defense output will of course be offset by curtailed production in some lines, but the experts don't look for a sharp drop in overall civilian production.

Silent House

Not a day goes by but what you tire of all the household noise, and you marvel at the racket caused by little girls and boys. You are sure it would be wonderful around your busy house, if for once the clatter ceased and it was quiet as a mouse. So when comes the day your wife and kids must visit folks out west, you are pleased to think you're just about to get some needed rest.

Then you loaf in solid comfort and you feel a pleasant glow, and the only sound is coming from your muffled radio. But you soon begin to fidget in the softness of your chair, and you get some cards and start to play a game of solitaire. Then the ash trays all around you soon are loaded high with butts, till at last it dawns upon you that the silence has you nuts.

Hurry back, dear wife and children, chase away this awful gloom, you implore the silent ceiling of your very lonely tomb. You would welcome back the cowboys and the cops and robbers too, and the chatter on the telephone that used to make you stew. You're convinced, no matter how you used to sit around and grouse, that a man who would be happy needs some noise around the house.

MARTIN

Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON—It is not new in American history for presidents to face political reverberations over the appointment or dismissal of military commanders. It was politics, for instance, which led to the appointment of a relatively unknown military man, John J. Pershing, as commander of the American Expeditionary Forces in France.

Woodrow Wilson faced an even more hostile Republican Congress than Truman—one which demanded that Ex-President Teddy Roosevelt be appointed U. S. commander in France. Roosevelt, a former colonel commanding the Rough Riders in Cuba, in 1898, had come forward immediately after the United States entered World War I, with a proposal that a division be sent to France immediately. And a resolution calling upon President Wilson to accept Roosevelt's services passed the House of Representatives with a whoop. Much to the consternation of Wilson, there was every indication that it would also pass the Senate.

So he called to the White House Sen. Francis A. Warren of Wyoming, leading Republican and ranking member of the Senate military affairs committee. John J. Pershing was Warren's son-in-law. Then only 46 years old, he had been in the army a relatively short time compared with other commanders, and thanks to a senator who ruled on military appropriations, he had been jumped from the rank of captain to that of brigadier general.

That afternoon, just before the Senate voted on the Roosevelt resolution, President Wilson announced that a division of the U. S. Army would be sent to France immediately. John J. Pershing, son-in-law of a powerful Republican senator, would be in command.

The Senate then defeated the Teddy Roosevelt resolution. President Wilson kept his political hold both on the Congress and the army.

MACARTHUR'S MOTHER

If you want to get real insight into the life of Douglas MacArthur, you have to begin with his mother. Actually his father, Lt. Gen. Arthur MacArthur, was more in the public eye, having commanded in the Philippines after the Spanish American war and helped clean up the islands.

But it was Mrs. Arthur MacArthur who went to live at West Point when her son, Douglas, entered the U. S. Military Academy. She had lived in an atmosphere of military rivalry between the two outstanding military families of the country—the MacArthurs and the U. S. Grants. Each family had a boy, one year apart in age. Both boys embarked upon military careers in the footsteps of their illustrious father and grandfather. They entered West Point in the same year.

And, simultaneously with Mrs. MacArthur, Mrs. Frederick D. Grant, daughter-in-law of the Civil War hero, moved to West Point to look out for her boy, Ulysses III.

For four years the two ladies stayed there, mingled with the officers in command, and spurred their boys on against each other. When they graduated in 1903, Douglas stood first in the class, Ulysses III stood second.

Douglas has never lost the drive instilled in him in his youth by his mother. Early in his army career, he was an aide to his father, then a lieutenant general. Later he became aide to Secretary of War Newton D. Baker, and handled his press relations. Possibly that was where he first learned to issue the MacArthur communiques which have since become famous throughout two hemispheres.

FRIENDS IN CONGRESS

MacArthur was jumped from the rank of major to brigadier general during World War I, and was the only brigadier general below the grade of colonel to keep his temporary rank afterward. To do it, he had to call upon political friends in Congress, of whom, even in those days, he had many.

A bill was passed providing that future promotions to brigadier general could come from the rank of colonel. But the so-called "MacArthur amendment" was tacked on providing that this did not apply to lieutenant colonels having 22 years service.

There were only three men in the army in this category—George Van Horn Moseley, Hugh A. Drum and Douglas MacArthur. As a result, they remained three jumps ahead of all their contemporaries which is one reason why MacArthur, up until Pearl Harbor, had always ranked so much higher than George Marshall.

Ulysses Grant III married the daughter of Elihu Root, former secretary of war while MacArthur married a daughter of the Philadelphia Stotesburys—an which did not hurt him when it came another promotion.

Unknown, Unmarked Surratt House Stands As Saddest Lincoln Reminder

By HERBERT HOLLANDER

On the evening of April 14, in 1865, John Wilkes Booth crept stealthily into the President's box at Ford's Theater and fired the shot which still echoes in the hearts of all Americans.

In Washington today three ancient buildings give eloquent testimony to the unforgettable drama of the night when Abraham Lincoln was assassinated.

Two of the buildings are honored as shrines and yearly are visited by hundreds of thousands who come to stand in tribute amidst the final scenes of the greatest single tragedy in the nation's annals. One of these is Ford's Theater, now a museum filled with Lincoln's relics.

The second is the house just across Tenth Street, the tiny dwelling of the tailor Petersen, in which the President breathed his last in the early hours of April 15. This has been refurbished largely as it was at the time.

But the third in this trilogy of buildings is unknown and unmarked, its intimate, historic, and tragic associations undreamed of by virtually all of the thousands who daily pass its door.

Surratt House

Down at the heel, its paint peeling, this dwelling, now in the heart of Washington's teeming Chinatown, is the Surratt house. No sign tells the passerby that here, at No. 604 H street northwest, was hatched the plot which brought death to Abraham Lincoln, sorrow to countless millions the world over, and changed the course of history.

Through a long succession of changes in occupancy the building has come into the hands of a native merchant who displays his wares in the very room in which the bitter compact was sealed.

Beginning at this house which seems to live on, forgotten, as the most poignant reminder of that night, one traverses the crowded downtown thoroughfares of Washington—in those days quiet residential streets often ankle-deep in mud—and makes one's way to Ford's. There one can see where the President entered the theater, how he made his way upstairs and down a short, narrow corridor to the box in which he was to meet death shortly thereafter while enjoying a scene from the farce, "Our American Cousin."

Immediately after the assassination the Federal government seized the building and banned any further theatrical presentations. For owner the theater, forced the determination to use his property for the purpose for which it was designed, and, in order to prevent this action, the structure was purchased by Congress.

Lincoln Museum

It became a federal office, and remained so until finally in 1932, after years of agitation, it was dedicated as a Lincoln museum and a large number of the relics from the Oldroyd collection in the Petersen house across the street were installed.

A guide points out the window, then a door, through which Lincoln entered. He stands upon the exact spot on which the Lincoln box stood and graphically retraces Booth's steps over the same route. Then he shows the window, which was a door then, through which Booth escaped into the alley, leaped upon his horse and galloped into the night, headed for Southern Maryland where eventually he was taken.

The alley, save for paving, is little changed from the fateful hour when it echoed to Booth's curses as he struck at the youth who held his horse.

Ford's houses a unique collection of relics, ranging all the way from prints of the hanging of the Lincoln conspirators to articles of clothing worn by the Emancipator, a rose from his coffin, a stove from his Springfield home, autograph letters, and a host of other items touching every period of Lincoln's life.

To Ford's and to the Petersen house come the great and the near-great, and countless thousands of plain citizenry who wish to honor the memory of one who has been called the kindest of all mortal men. Sometimes such visits are deeply moving, especially when the visitors are descendants of persons involved in the tragedy or its aftermath. Visitors have included members of the family of Dr. Samuel Mudd, who set Booth's broken leg.

Fate of Booth?

There has been no end of controversy with respect to the "true" fate of John Wilkes Booth. Did he die not die in that burning barn in Southern Maryland, the victim of a bullet from the rifle of Sergeant Boston Corbett? Or did he escape and even return to the scene of his crime?

Many claimed to have seen Booth in later years, but all who are informed intimately on the details of the assassination regard the story as an old wives' tale. The strongest testimony in behalf of the story that John Wilkes Booth never came back alive from Southern Maryland—a story to which the federal government has subscribed fully and without qualification—is to be found in the fact that the murderer of Lincoln unquestionably lies buried in the

So They Say

We can rest assured that the United States will have sufficient steel capacity to meet any defense or military requirements, whatever they may prove to be.—Irving S. Olds, board chairman, U. S. Steel.

I think we should send more (troops to Europe). If we do, we'll increase the possibility that those there now will be alive a year from now.—Gov. Thomas E. Dewey, of New York.

We must protect and defend Europe. Soviet Russia doesn't want manpower. It wants natural resources and industrial power. That's why it wants Europe.—Francis Biddle, national chairman, Americans for Democratic Action.

There has been a genuine misapprehension of the government of Communist China. I do not believe that the Communist coup in China came from the Chinese "grass roots," but that it is an actual military conquest by Soviet Russia.—Robert A. Smith, former chief of India-Burma OWI division.

Booth family plot in Green Mount Cemetery, Baltimore. The grave is to be seen there.

The most graphic description of the assassin's motives, and of the horror of his own last days, is revealed in notes found in the diary taken from Booth's pocket when he was captured at the blazing Garrett barn.

"Until today," Booth wrote under date of April 14, "nothing was ever thought of sacrificing to our country's wrongs. For six months we had worked to capture (Lincoln), but our cause being almost lost, something decisive and great must be done. But its failure was owing to others, who did not strike for their country with a heart. I struck boldly, and not as the papers say. I walked with a firm step through a thousand of his friends; was stopped, but pushed on. A colonel was at his side. I shouted 'sic semper' before I fired. In jumping broke my leg. I passed all his pickets; rode thirty-six miles that night with the bone of my leg tearing my flesh at every jump. I can never report it. Though we hated to kill, our country owed all her troubles to him, and God simply made me the instrument of his punishment. The country is not what it was. This forced Union is not what I have loved. I care not what becomes of me. I have no desire to outlive my country. The night before the deed I wrote a long article and left it for one of the editors of the National Intelligencer, in which I fully set forth our reasons for our proceedings. He or the South."

Three Were Hanged

For their parts in the murder plot, Mrs. Surratt, Harold, Payne and Atzerodt were hanged in the district jail. Others implicated were sentenced to long prison terms in the Dry Tortugas, off the Florida coast. There always has been a question in the minds of many regarding the extent of Mrs. Surratt's guilt; and there are some who are convinced that her execution was a miscarriage of justice. But that her house was used by the conspirators has been proved beyond doubt.

The final act in the Lincoln tragedy was enacted in the little house across the street from Ford's Theater, the house to which the mortally wounded President was borne and in which he breathed his last, surrounded by the highest dignitaries of the Nation, and by his widow and his son, the late Robert T. Lincoln.

Just a few feet from the front door is the room in which Lincoln died. The bed is an exact replica of the original now held by the Chicago Historical Society. Most of the remainder of the furnishings are originals, including a print of Rosa Bonheur's famous picture, "The Horse Fair," which hangs now, as it did then, near the death bed. Here, too, is the chair on which sat Edwin Stanton, Secretary of War, who said as Lincoln passed away:

"Now he belongs to the ages."

Standing on the hallowed ground 86 years after the event, the visitor as rarely before is impressed by the coincidence that Lincoln, the man of the people, should have died in such humble surroundings, in a room no larger and no more pretentious than the single room of the log cabin in which he was born.

Good Evening...

By CLINT DUNATHAN

RUBBING NOSES—Reaction to a recent column concerning the untidy habits of those who dump garbage and other refuse along the roadsides was all favorable.

Mrs. N. Olsen of Escanaba Rt. 1 writes to assure us of her support if the law ever catches up with any of the fifth distributors and the penalty imposed is to have their noses rubbed in it. "I would like to witness the performance," she says, and adds:

"Some of them go a few feet off the highway and leave large boxes of garbage on private property. Then the dogs that are running loose all around tear it apart—and is it a lovely sight! I certainly wish something could be done about it. If a few were caught and fined perhaps it would discourage others from such habits."

Note: A road commission supervisory employee tells me complaints made to law enforcement officers seldom bring results. He wonders if they are ever investigated.

RECOLLECTION—The Escanaba Rotary club has a pleasant practice of having its new members introduce themselves with a brief biography.

Two of the club's recent members, Robert "Bob" Mosenfelder, retailer, and B. M. "Bert" Howe, C&NW traffic department employee, told the story of their lives at a recent meeting of Rotary.

Besides the usual information on family, school, college, military service, and work, each spoke of his boyhood days. Their recollections will interest you.

Mosenfelder, born in Rock Island, Ill., became interested in selling at an early age. His first experience as a salesman was in peddling 50 bottles of perfume, for which he was to receive "a treasure box of 1,000 wonders." He did his part but the box of 1,000 wonders was slow in arriving. When it did come young Bob considered it "hardly worth one bottle of cheap perfume."

Bert Howe has spent most of his lifetime around railroads. One of the most difficult tasks he encountered was learning the Morse code and he admits he never became very proficient. He was destined for railroading, however, for his father was a railroadman and Bert was born in a C&NW station at Gettysburg, Nebraska. In those days in the West the agent had living quarters in the station.

TICKLED PINK—Arising the other morning to find the ground covered with snow and to hear the dismal groans of our offspring contemplating the return (however temporary) of water, we were unprepared to find anyone to whom the snow brought lightness of heart.

But it did, and the individual is John Chriske, conservation supervisor for the Escanaba district.

"Kind of nasty weather," we observed glumly.

"Wonderful," smiled John. "Now we can forget about forest fires for awhile. You know, today we unloaded the fire fighting equipment off the trucks. I guess we won't need it soon. Nice day!"

GOOD FOR SMELTING—The weather, besides being good to control forest fires, is also conducive to a smelt run.

It has been our experience that no respectable law-abiding smelt ever began its spring spawning run in nice weather. Invariably they wait until the weather turns cold, snow pellets fly through the air, and there isn't a dry spot to sit on along a river bank.

Such is the weather we now have with us. And the smelt are beginning to run. This means that those who care more for a basket of smelt and a hacking case of pneumonia than for warm feet and the solid comfort of home will be out on the smelt stream this weekend.

Lots of them will be out nonetheless. We would rather have a relapse from the bots than suffer the pangs of smelt fever.

NOT JUST FOR FOG—During the recent snowstorm you may have heard fog horns blowing on the bay, coming from ore boats and the Sand Point light house.

There is another new sound in the Escanaba area and across the Upper Peninsula to the iron mines. It is the sound of compressed air horns on C&NW diesel electric locomotives in the iron ore traffic.

The sound of those horns should arouse your interest, for they signify one of the biggest iron ore rushes in years. Ore is coming here at a fast pace from the Menominee, the Marquette, and for the second year in history from the Gogebie range—200 miles away in the extreme western U. P. and northern Wisconsin.

Take My Word For It... Frank Colby Jr.

SATURDAY QUIZ

Los Angeles: Please give the origin, meaning, and pronunciation of the word savant.—T. M.

Answer: Savant is a French loan word meaning "a scholar; a man of learning." In the French pronunciation the "t" is silent and the word ends with the French nasal sound, thus: sa-vahn(N). The Standard American pronunciation is: SAV-unt.

Q. Please explain what is meant by the "Latin races." A girl in our office is of French and Spanish descent. She denies indignantly that she is Latin. "No," she declares, "I'm a Caucasian!"—Mrs. A. C.

Answer: In this sense, Latin designates the people of any country whose language and culture are descended from the Latin. Hence, the French, Italians, Spanish, etc., are Latin races. It is for this same reason that the peoples south of the Rio Grande are spoken of collectively as Latin-Americans.

Cincinnati: please define and pronounce the phrase "cause celebre."—F. A. A.

Answer: Strictly speaking, a cause celebre is a legal (usually criminal) case which attracts wide attention, such as the famous Dreyfus case in France. The term now is loosely applied to any celebrated controversy. The correct pronunciation is as the French say it: koze say-LEB-ruh (note the "cause" rhymes with Adoze.)

Bushels Of Telegrams Pour Into Washington

By MARQUIS CHILDS
WASHINGTON — Where and when the storm now sweeping over Washington will end no one can predict. Not in a long time has there been anything like it. The telegraph boys are carrying bushel baskets of wires to practically every office in the Senate and House and almost without exception they oppose President Truman's action in removing General MacArthur from his command.

The talk of impeachment was inevitable. Partly it is political in origin. But in the thousands of wires pouring into the capital it reflects a long pent-up fury and frustration.

Those who use the word glibly do not realize that impeachment is a solemn constitutional procedure rarely evoked. Only the House of Representatives can vote on the impeachment of a president.

When an impeachment has been voted against a president, the trial is held before the Senate, with the chief justice presiding. Conviction is on a vote of two-thirds of those present. The language of the constitution provides impeachment for "treason, bribery or other high crimes and misdemeanors." The supreme court has never interpreted that language.

Johnson Was Impeached
When President Truman first came into the White House, he talked about the trials of one of his predecessors. That was Andrew Johnson, who succeeded to the office on the assassination of Lincoln and thereby inherited the tribulations that come in the wake of a great war. Johnson is the only president in our history to be impeached. By a margin of one vote the Senate failed to vote that impeachment.

It seems most unlikely that anything so drastic will occur in this instance. Yet in the inflamed state of opinion, with all the confusions and conflicts, doubts and uncertainties that beset the American people, one must add that anything can happen.

In the present violent reaction there is plainly a current of unreason. Truman is the symbol of which long-stored-up wrath is being poured out. And that wrath probably traces back in part to the tensions under which we have been living in recent months.

Some who are so passionately for MacArthur seem to be for him in the belief that if he were only given his own way, he would find a magical means to end the war and bring peace to the Pacific. This does not, of course, conform to the facts. The MacArthur policy would certainly have expanded the Pacific war.

British Fear Russia
Whether it would have meant the start of World War III is another matter. The British were convinced that Soviet Russia would honor its treaty of mutual assistance with Communist China and come in if American planes attacked the Chinese mainland. MacArthur believed that this danger was negligible.

Whether the storm goes to the point of action against Truman—and the Democratic party still has at least nominal majorities in both houses of congress—its violence will not soon subside. Quite apart from popular feeling, powerful engines of publicity are behind MacArthur. They will work night and day. MacArthur's return to America for the first time in nearly 15 years, his appearance before congress, the drama in his every word and gesture, all this will keep it going.

Behind MacArthur is the whole of the so-called China lobby. It has large resources of money, including the support of a half dozen Chinese in this country, most of them members of the Soong family, who are reported to have vast sums in banks in Switzerland, the Argentine, Holland and the United States.

Truman May Run Again
It is certainly too early to say what the political consequences of the president's action will be. He is a stubborn man. The very force of the reaction might persuade him to reverse a decision not to run for office again if, as many believe, he has made such a decision.

One thing does seem fairly clear. Even though they may not be able to get the president himself, his critics and attackers in congress can take revenge on his policies. And it is here, in my opinion, that there is the possibility for tragedy transcending any man's personal fortunes.

This violent quarrel can mean a further paralysis of government at a time when it is vital to rearm to unify the coalition of western nations. If we can't have our way in the Far East, the extremists may say in effect to the president, then you will not get your way in Europe. Obstructionism under our system of divided powers can do a lot when there is no really responsible control in congress as between Republicans and Democrats.

Already the evidence of it has been ample in this congress. If it now goes on to impede vital measures, we shall have paid a terrible price for our divisions.

Alcatraz Smuggling Of Letters Nipped; One Guard Arrested

SAN FRANCISCO — (AP) — One man has been arrested and FBI agents plan to arrest at least one other on charges of smuggling letters out of Alcatraz Island federal prison, says Assistant U. S. Attorney Charles O'Gara.

"The whole situation on Alcatraz is potentially explosive," O'Gara said.

"We know for sure that certain convicts smuggled out letters asking for money, and that the money was smuggled in to them. And the only way convicts could have for money on the Rock (Alcatraz) is for bribery."

"For $1,000 or so a cheap officer might smuggle in weapons * * * In any case, the FBI is cracking down."

Lee McCandless, 41-year-old guard, was arrested Wednesday and charged with smuggling out a letter written by Peter Norris, 34-year-old former outlaw terror of the midwest. He went to Alcatraz in 1946.

In 1950, 1,799,800 Americans were injured in traffic accidents.

Nations Questioned About Men For U. N. Anti-Aggression Army

UNITED NATIONS — (AP) — All 60 United Nations members received letters Friday asking them how soon they can assign units of their armed forces to the U. N.'s anti-aggression army.

The United States has already started figuring out how many soldiers, sailors and airmen it can spare for the task and expects to tell Secretary General Trygve Lie before the month is up. In the meantime the Pentagon is keeping the figures secret.

Russia and her satellites, who have been boycotting the collective measures which sent the appeal, are expected to ignore the letters.

Last year, 35,500 Americans were killed in traffic accidents.

Training Given To Bus Drivers

Course Opened At Stephenson School

A second round of classes in school bus driver training has been initiated by the extension division of Northern Michigan College of Education.

The series was opened in Stephenson this month by Leslie R. Silvernale, who is on loan to Northern Michigan College from the department of continuing education at Michigan State College. Silvernale's itinerary includes Stephenson, Powers, Escanaba, Harris, Wells, Escanaba and Munising.

Lee Duer, who served last year as Northern Michigan College instructor in bus driver training, will follow an itinerary identical with Silvernale's, giving demonstrations in a new bus furnished Northern Michigan College by Reo Motors, Incorporated. For the past six months Duer has been assisting Silvernale with a similar program being conducted in the lower peninsula by Michigan State College.

There are about 400 bus drivers in the Upper Peninsula, a Northern Michigan College spokesman said. Of that number, 34 received instruction through the Northern Michigan College program last year.

Silvernale is a graduate of the Menominee high school. He received his bachelor of arts degree from the University of Michigan in 1925 and his master of arts degree from Columbia University in 1929. Since then, he has been a high school principal, an elementary school supervisor, superintendent of safety education, a member of the school and college division of the National Safety Council, a farmer and a member of the Michigan Inter-Industry Highway Safety committee. Bill Passed To Give Free Life Insurance For Armed Forces

WASHINGTON—(AP)—A bill providing free $10,000 life insurance for all members of the armed forces is on its way to President Truman for signature.

The Senate completed congressional action on the new military insurance yesterday. The bill provides that all members of the armed forces who lost their lives in Korea will benefit.

It replaces the present system of government insurance for which members of the armed forces pay premiums. The bill allows former servicemen who now carry government insurance to retain or reinstate it if recalled to active duty. It also provides that servicemen and women may buy government term life insurance within 120 days after leaving the armed forces. Premium rates would be based on age.

President Truman is expected to approve the bill.

UPPER MERIDON, Md.—(AP)—An Air Force pilot whose abandoned plane killed three members of a family in their home last Sunday has been indicted on a charge of manslaughter.

However, the plane swerved to the ground, crashing into a home at Morningside, Md., killing two children and their uncle.

Maharajah Of Baroda Stripped Of Titles; Other Princes Warned

NEW DELHI, India—(AP)—Prime Minister Nehru, commenting on India's ouster of the rich Maharajah of Baroda, today warned the potentates' fellow princes that the government will not tolerate "any challenge to the constitution of India."

The government served notice yesterday on the flashy, turf-loving Maharajah that it was stripping him of his royal titles, privileges and a $550,000 yearly pension reportedly on charges involving both his monetary affairs and national security.

School population in Wells township has been steadily increasing and the schools now are overcrowded. Construction of new schools will provide safe and healthful conditions for the children, the board of education has advised.

It is proposed to construct a two room school at Pine Ridge as the first step in the building program, followed by the building of a new school at Wells.

The board of education is urging all qualified voters to turn out for the referendum so that a decision based upon the wish of the majority of the citizens will be obtained.

MAC'S AIDE TO QUIT—Major Gen. Courtney Whitney, General MacArthur's old friend, closest adviser and head of his government section, has requested retirement in order to accompany the former supreme commander when he returns to the U. S.

Such a standard will apply, the directive said, to such salaried film jobs as actors and actresses, producers, directors, writers, composers, musicians, film editors, wardrobe designers and camera men. The problem of setting separate standards for salaried workers is likely to be one of the first tackled by the wage board when it gets back into business.

Right now the wage board is inactive because of the dispute between labor and management members over its scope. But the White House reported this week that the disagreement is being ironed out. So it appears the board may soon resume its functions.

Newsreel Of Truman Causes Bedlam At Lansing Drive-In

LANSING—(AP)—The showing of newsreels of President Truman delivering his Wednesday night radio talk produced bedlam in a suburban drive-in theater here last night, Pearce Parkhurst, the manager, reported.

Parkhurst said newsreels of General MacArthur's dismissal and Allied events crossed the screen without incident. But, he added, when pictures were shown of Mr. Truman addressing the nation in explanation of the dismissal, the patrons drowned out his voice with their car horns, blotted the screen with headlights and spot lights. One patron, he said, tried to climb up and blot out the projector with his hat.

CHICAGO—(AP)—A Nurse, Mich., nurse filed suit for $100,000 damages yesterday against a Joliet, Ill., hospital and a surgeon, charging a sponge was left in her pelvic cavity following an operation.

Named defendants in the suit filed in federal court by Mrs. Mary L. Sturges, 23, of Niles, were Dr. J. Campbell Carey of Joliet, and the Silver Cross hospital.

The suit charges that on April 3, 1950, Carey operated on Mrs. Sturges and left the sponge in her body. It remained there, she contends, until removed six months later by another physician. The suit charges negligence.

Starfish In Yard

LESLIE—(AP)—How did a live starfish ever get on the loose in Michigan? That's been puzzling Joyce Bigg, 14, ever since she found a wriggling starfish on the front yard of her brother's home in this Jackson county community. The science department at Leslie high school has speculated the salt water animal might have gotten a ride inland with a load of oysters. The starfish is on display in the school lab.

said so publicly, and his whopping victories in the past two elections have given him a long start in the eyes of Republicans who want to win next time.

In addition to his undoubted attraction to young voters, a lot of the old guard feel now that they could have won last fall with Alger.

Auditor General John B. Martin Jr., one of the fastest rising stars in the G. O. P., firmly, reportedly may go for the Senate in two years.

In many ways Martin would be a natural. In addition to being young, handsome, a campaigner who never quits and an able man, Martin has the especial advantage of being from Grand Rapids. Western Michigan is going to be very insistent that the next U. S. senator come from that area, since the other Senator, Homer Ferguson, is a Detroitier.

Summerfield's Boy
Martin owes his place on the state "cabinet" to Alger, they are of somewhat the same political philosophy and character and it would not be surprising to see them team up for the 1952 race.

Summerfield apparently has supported Alger to date, but there are some reasons for thinking that if it came to a showdown his allegiance would run to Cleary instead of Alger.

Cleary is known in inside circles as Summerfield's boy. Therefore, a team of Cleary for governor and Summerfield for U. S. Senate could be in prospect.

Or Summerfield could command half the ticket if he backed Cleary for the Senate and Alger for governor.

All this could build up into some nice intramural battling. It won't come out in the open, probably for months, but watch for the little rustlings of men getting into position.

Obviously, these four men are not the only politically ambitious men in the party. But these four probably are in the best position to break over the line first.

State Treasurer D. Hale Brake probably has not abandoned his hope of being governor. He has stepped aside at least twice in the interests of party harmony. He has strong support in the so-called "court house" circles.

In the role of an older man who has loyally waited his chance and gone down the line faithfully for the party, he would have a definite appeal to the party regulars.

Junior Gets Check For $300,000, Has To Give $299,954 Back

NEW YORK—(AP)—Freddy Scozzia, 17, was worth a fortune for one day—until a treasury agent lopped off $299,954.50.

Freddy is a high school junior whose family is on relief. Last summer he worked in a pawnshop and earned $396.

Last January he informed the treasury department he had overpaid $45.50 in withholding taxes. Yesterday he got a check—for $300,000.

"Rich" for a day, Freddy had fun showing the big check to his friends. Then he contacted a treasury agent who exchanged checks with the lad.

Freddy's "take" had dwindled to $45.50.

New York Offers Big Ticker-Tape Welcome For Gen. MacArthur

NEW YORK—(AP)—Gen. Douglas MacArthur has been officially invited to visit New York and get one of the big town's traditional ticker-tape welcomes.

The general, removed from his Far East commands by President Truman, may fly here from the West Coast on Wednesday.

Mayor Vincent R. Impellitteri announced yesterday that he sent a cablegram to MacArthur in Tokyo extending the city's "official municipal welcome."

The mayor said he asked the general to advise him of a definite date for the New York visit so the city could make appropriate preparations.

Letters To MacArthur May Be Sent In Care Of Adjutant General

WASHINGTON—(AP)—Want to write to Gen. Douglas MacArthur about the row that brought his dismissal? The best address right now is in care of the Army Adjutant General.

Some newspapers reported today that they were getting calls from readers who wanted to write. Letters addressed to the general in care of the adjutant general at the Pentagon building here will be delivered.

Defense Production Director To Resign

WASHINGTON—(AP)—Members of William H. Harrison's staff say he is expected to resign soon from his post as defense production administrator.

Harrison's resignation because of ill health has been predicted for some time. No date for his resignation has been decided upon, his staff members said.

Harrison is on leave from his job as president of the International Telephone and Telegraph company.

Daughter Of Actress Ingrid Bergman Will Meet Her In Europe

LOS ANGELES—(AP)—Jenny Lindstrom, 12-year-old daughter of Ingrid Bergman, is going to visit the actress this summer in Europe.

Jenny's father, Dr. Peter A. Lindstrom, Beverly Hills neurologist, obtained court permission yesterday to withdraw $2,000 from her $22,000 trust fund to help defray the expenses of the trip after school is out in June.

Jenny, whose name was Pia before she became a U. S. citizen five months ago, hasn't seen her mother since 1949 when Miss Bergman deserted her husband and went to Italy to make a picture for Director Roberto Rossellini.

Dr. Lindstrom said he will accompany Jenny on the trip.

Scenic Pigeon Hill Brine Plant Opposed By Muskegon Folks

MUSKEGON—(AP)—There is talk of selling or leasing scenic Pigeon Hill to industry and some folks don't like the idea.

A group of property owners demanded at a meeting last night that the city continue development of Pigeon Hill for recreation.

Pigeon Hill is a sand dune familiar to thousands of tourists and lake travelers. It lies on the channel between Lake Michigan and Muskegon lake.

A chemical manufacturing company wants to acquire the hill as a site for processing brine from salt wells.

Foster Mother Finds Baby Dead, Shoots Self At Mt. Clemens

MT. CLEMENS, Mich.—(AP)—A young foster mother, who had an "immense" love for children, shot herself after she found her baby found dead, Macomb County Coroner Clifford H. Read said today.

The young woman, Mrs. Barbara Mae Schroeder, 26, was found dead Friday in her home in Fraser, seven miles southwest of here. Her ward, 14-month-old Philip Mauws, also was dead in his crib.

Coroner Read said that the infant had strangled on mucus, and that Mrs. Schroeder, "distraught" on discovering it, shot herself in the head with a revolver.

Chicago-California Railroad Fares Up 10 Percent June 1

CHICAGO—(AP)—Round trip railroad fares from Chicago to California will be increased as much as 10 per cent, effective June 1, the Western Passenger Association announced yesterday.

Notice of the increases will be filed with the Interstate Commerce Commission late this month, the association said.

Railroads do not have to obtain ICC approval of increases on round trip rates, but a 30 day notice is necessary. Eastern and southern roads also are said to be preparing new rates for California round trips.

Present Chicago to Los Angeles round trip coach fare is $81.25, which would be hiked to $89.40. The present $114.25 round trip first class fare would be raised to $125.70.

Arthur to address the members of both houses. I regard it as fitting that Congress bestow this honor on one of our great military men."

Critics Heard
Chairman Russell (D - Ga.), whose Senate armed services committee has invited MacArthur to testify in hearings beginning Wednesday, called the president's gesture "magnanimous."

But Senator Wherry of Nebraska, the Republican floor leader, had a different view.

"After the general was slapped in the face, the public reaction which followed made it impossible for the president to do anything else," Wherry told a reporter.

The Democratic decision to ask MacArthur to speak at a joint meeting apparently came only after a lot of argument and after Mr. Truman had sent informal word of his wishes.

The Senate Democratic policy committee spent two hours debating what to do and Senator Kerr (D-Akla.), outspoken MacArthur critic came out saying that no matter what the leadership did he was going to oppose a resolution to extend the invitation.

Ball Game Monday
The resolution would not be voted upon until Tuesday because Congress is taking the day off Monday so members can go to the opening American league baseball game here. Approval appeared certain.

Russell cabled MacArthur in Tokyo asking him to testify in armed services committee hearings which will open with testimony by Secretary of Defense Marshall behind closed doors. Russell said open sessions will be held for MacArthur's appearance, if the general accepts the invitation and if he wants to testify in public.

The Georgia senator said the committee will concern itself with such questions as whether United Nations forces should be permitted to bomb Communist bases in Manchuria and should use Chinese Nationalist troops.

Both courses have been advocated by MacArthur but opposed by Mr. Truman and his military and diplomatic advisers.

Peace Pact Pushed
Russell described the dispute which led to MacArthur's discharge from his multiple commands this way:

"General MacArthur favors an all-out effort to destroy Communism in Asia. It is the policy of the administration to limit the war in Asia to operations such as are now in progress in Korea, while strengthening the defenses of the free peoples of Europe."

Because of the foreign policies involved, Russell said Secretary of State Acheson may be called as a witness.

Meantime, President Truman and John Foster Dulles, Republican foreign policy advisor, combined efforts to keep the forthcoming Japanese peace settlement from becoming involved in the MacArthur issue.

Dulles left by plane late yesterday on a 10-day trip directed by Mr. Truman to speed preparations for the settlement. He also proposes to try to allay any Japanese uncertainties resulting from MacArthur's removal.

Mother Raps Board For Drafting Boy, 8

NEWARK, N. J.—(AP)—An irate mother berated a local draft board for trying to induct her son into the army—and she won the battle.

The draft board looked yesterday at the prospective soldier, Michael J. Collins, and then told his mother to "just forget about it."

Michael is only eight years old. Furthermore, the boy told the board, "when I get big enough I'm not going to join the army. I'm going to join the navy."

The board apologized to Michael's mother, Mrs. George Collins, saying it was all a mistake they could not explain.

Chicago-California Railroad Fares Up 10 Percent June 1

Present Chicago to Los Angeles round trip coach fare is $81.25, which would be hiked to $89.40. The present $114.25 round trip first class fare would be raised to $125.70.

Miss Fern Stacy,
Chester Schram
Repeat Vows

A ballerina length gown of white lace over net and satin was worn by Miss Fern Stacy, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Stacy, 1013 Fourth avenue south, for her wedding this morning to Chester Schram of 418 Michigan avenue, Gladstone, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Frank Schram.

The vows were spoken before Father Stephen Schneider, O.F.M., at a 9 o'clock nuptial high mass at St. Joseph's church.

A short white lace jacket which came to a point in the back, with a petal collar and long, tight-fitting sleeves distinguished the gown. The bride's veil of illusion, fingertip length, was gathered to a halo of starched lace and net with clusters of tiny flowers at either side. She carried a colonial bouquet of white flowers.

Matron of Honor

Her sister, Mrs. Mae Brazeau, who was matron of honor, wore a dress of pastel green, designed with a lace bodice and taffeta skirt. Her hat was of matching lace and she carried a colonial arrangement of white and pastel flowers.

Robert Schram served as best man for his brother and ushering were John Schram and Joseph Vachon. Mr. Stacy gave his daughter in marriage.

Mrs. Stacy, mother of the bride, wore a beige suit with brown accessories and a corsage of red roses for her daughter's wedding.

Tall standards holding effective arrangements of gladiolus in pastel colors were at either side of the altar. St. Joseph's choir with Miss Eva Cossette, organist-director, sang the music of the wedding mass. Soloist of the mass was Mrs. Eldridge Baker. At the offertory Mrs. Ullaine O'Donnell sang "Ave Maria" and at the close of the service Miss Doris Costley sang "On This Day."

Home Reception

The wedding breakfast for forty-five guests was served at Terrace Gardens and Mr. and Mrs. Stacy are giving the reception at their home. Pouring at the reception are Miss Freda Baribeau and Miss Theresa Pepin.

The newlyweds will be at home after their wedding trip at 415 Third avenue south in Escanaba. For traveling the bride has selected a navy blue gabardine suit and navy and white accessories.

The bride is a graduate of St. Joseph's high school and St. Anthony's School of Nursing in Rockford, Ill. SOME people like best the parable about the multitude that loaf and fishes! Fishermen and hunters will like the clever slogan trays made of beautiful light wood at the Photo Art Shop. Also in the large stock of wooden articles are clever incense burners—brightly painted train engines. The incense smoke comes out the little smoke stack. Lazy Susans, salts and peppers, and bowls of all sizes—you'll feel just like a termite, you could eat 'em up!

MODERNFOLDS sure catch the eye! Decorators tell you why: (They save space or make space, which ever you want.)

Modernfolds are just the thing! What are they, are you wondering?

(Ask Ray Erickson at Erickson Millwork. He'll tell you about the sturdy metal frame that folds like an accordion, and about the plastic fabric coverings, and how you use them for closet doors, or moveable walls, and how cheap, too!) Vote on Modernfolds for your new house and the eyes will have it!

The Ashtabula

A Trim Ranch House
Of Distinctive Design

Rooms Six
Bedrooms Two
Closets Seven
Cubage 25,500 ft.
Dimensions 59' x 24'

You'll need a sizable lot of land on which to build the Ashtabula for it measures 59 by 24 feet; at least a 70-foot lot would be required and a larger one will give a more attractive setting for this rambling ranch house.

Shingles Advised

Shingles or clapboards will make the most attractive exterior finish for this house. Use colorful roofing to add a touch of brightness to the exterior. Simple landscaping is best with a house of this type, although a small terrace, as used in the illustration, is very attractive.

The plain front entrance is in line with the architectural simplicity of the house. A handy clothes closet is located in the right wall of the entry hall. An open archway at the left leads into the spacious living room. The smaller arch at the end of the entry hall leads into the central hallway connecting with the bedrooms in the right wing of the house as well as with the bath and central closet area.

Located as they are along the left wall of this central hallway, this central closet area utilizes every available inch for valuable storage space.

To the right off the central hall are the bedrooms both of which measure 13 by 11 feet. With windows on two exposures, both these rooms reap the benefits of cross-ventilation and plenty of light.

Furniture arrangement should be no problem in the 18 by 12-foot living room although there are connecting doors or archways as preferred from the hall, the den and the living and dining room. These doorways are so placed that traffic does not pass through the center of the living room.

Reached through a door in the back wall of the living room, the den measures 11 by 8 feet. Well-lighted by a large window in the back wall and containing a good-sized closet, this room could serve as a third bedroom or double as a guest room.

Living-Dining Room

The living and dining room is meant to be just what its name implies. If you prefer to use it just as a dining room you can, of course, do just that. Measuring 14 feet 6 inches by 10 feet it is one of the most attractive rooms in the Ashtabula and one of the best-lighted. A French door, flanked by paneled windows, is located in the center of the front wall; there is another French door also flanked by paneled windows in the back wall.

Both these doors open out on porches or sun decks; the choice is up to you. Modern open planning is typified by rooms such as this which use plenty of window and door space to bring the outdoors inside, thus adding to the feeling of spaciousness and also capitalizing upon the beauty of the surrounding landscape. Be sure to take advantage of this in placing your dining room set.

Stairs to the cellar also open off this room. A door in the right wall conceals them from view. Another door, just beyond the stairway, leads to the compact kitchen. Except for a small section of the front wall, counters and appliances line all the wall space in this 10 by 8-foot kitchen.

The refrigerator is centered in the front wall; cabinets extend from this along the right wall and back walls to the sink which is placed under a window. Another section of cabinets extend from the sink to the stove against the left wall. In a kitchen as small as this there is, of course, no room for a breakfast nook. However, there is a compensation in that it's very easy to prepare meals in so small an area as everything you need is but a few steps away.

Whether you decide upon a full or partial cellar for the Ashtabula, have the heating plant installed under the living room and the laundry under the kitchen. Be

Williams Censured
In Lansing After
Backing Up Truman

LANSING — (AP) — The Senate Friday censured Governor Williams for his defense of President Truman in dismissing General MacArthur.

A resolution introduced by Senator Harry F. Hittle (R-East Lansing) declared the Senate "vehemently censured and condemns Gov. G. Mennen Williams in his official joining of the English socialistic program of business in China as usual while American casualties now exceed 50,000 in a war the end of which is nowhere in sight."

The chamber said it also "condemned the governor of the state of Michigan for associating himself with the Acheson-Alger Hiss foreign policy program which, if continued, can only result in immeasurable injuries and damage to the American republic."

The five-star general, now 53 years old, had planned to take off his uniform and do some fishing and hunting after next Aug. 16. That's the date his two-year tour of duty in the JCS post ends. But President Truman is said to want the "GI general" to remain on.

Retirement Passed Up
Bradley would have been eligible to retire five years ago under the 30-year retirement provision of the army. However, he passed up retirement to serve first as chief of staff of the army, then as chairman of the joint chiefs.

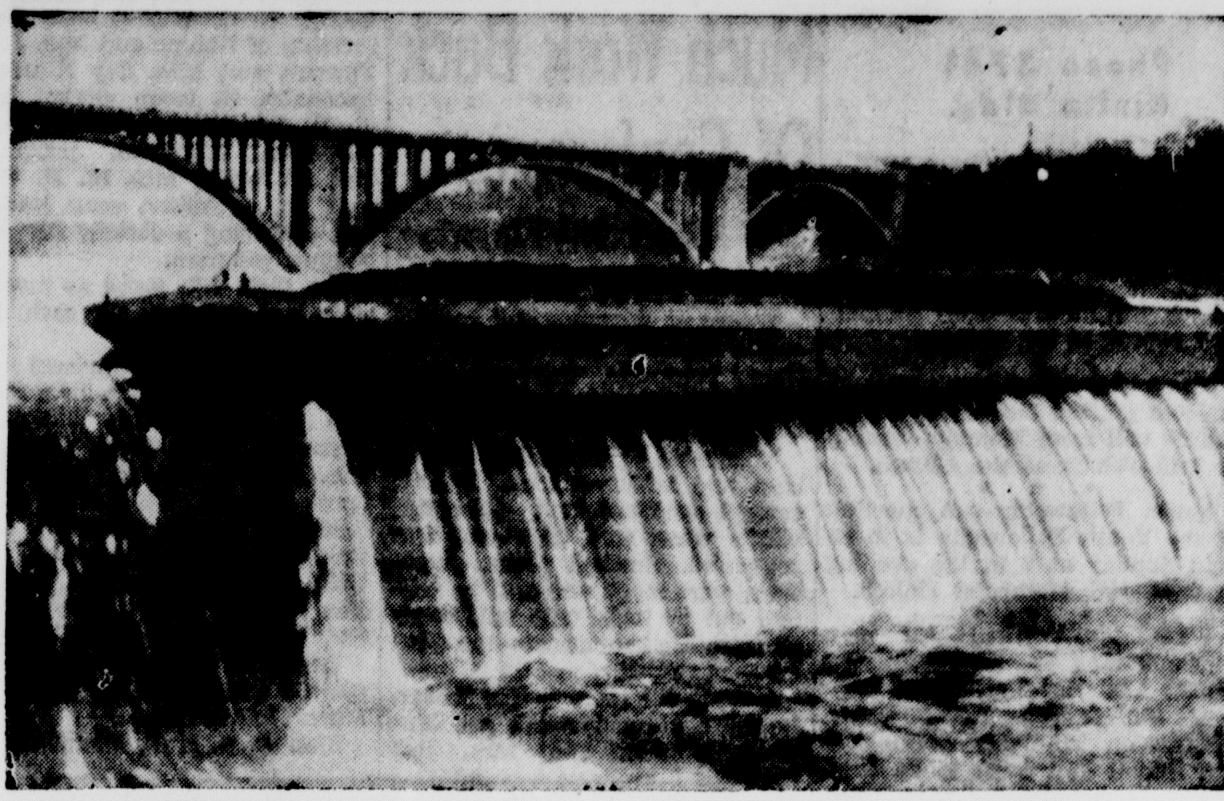

In the latter post, he has had to handle problems equal to any he encountered either as Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower's ground deputy in the European war or as army staff chief.

To the purely military troubles arising from the Korean war and the buildup of American forces in western Europe was added the stormy political controversy which reached a dramatic climax early Wednesday when President Truman fired Gen. Douglas MacArthur. As one of Mr. Truman's chief counselors on military matters, Bradley presumably had to make his recommendation when the president was weighing the question of reprimanding or firing the Far Eastern commander.

First Official Chairman

Bradley is the first man to hold the JCS chairmanship under the post officially created by an act of Congress. Eisenhower served for six months as a "coordinator" for the joint chiefs, an arrangement made by the late Secretary of Defense Forrestal and Mr. Truman. However, that assignment was only by an executive provision. In the meantime, amendments made to the original service unification bill included formal creation of the post of chairman and Mr. Truman asked Bradley to accept the job.

Under a rotation custom of the military, the chairmanship presumably will go next to the Navy, then to the Air Force. If the precedent established in picking the first chairman is followed, Admiral Forrest Sherman, chief of Naval operations and the Navy members of the JCS, probably will be the eventual successor to Bradley.

Trout Season Two Weeks Away And Snow On Wind Doesn't Help One Bit

By JAMES A. O. CROWE

LANSING — (AP)—It is a little too early to make detailed predictions of conditions for the opening of the trout season in two weeks, but there are some straws in the wind.

It was a long and hard winter, but the trout, a hardy species, have survived it with no apparent ill effects, field observations show.

Conservation department observers report that the carryover from last season is at least as good as normal. In fact, there are probably more trout in the streams than in a normal spring.

Last year's trout season started out and ended badly. Fishing for the most part was only what you could call good for a few weeks in July.

Warm Weather Needed

Thus, it is believed, fewer trout were caught last year than formerly. This just means that there should be more trout this year.

The spring has been colder than normal, and the growing season is reported a week behind normal. This means that presumably, the trout so far are also a week behind schedule on reaching their normal feeding habits.

There is still plenty of time, however, for them to catch up if the weather turns warmer for a while before the April 28 opening.

The spring runoff in the northern trout stream regions has been gradual, so the streams should not be in flood for the opener. Opening day anglers expect some high water, but if the streams are not in actual flood, good fishing is possible.

With signs pointing to a better opening than last year's, estimates of the fishermen who will get to the streams and lakes are being revised upwards. Preliminary guess was 80,000, but now observers are saying the opening day crowd will be between that figure and 100,000.

Regulations Unchanged

Conservation department planting crews have found back roads suitable for their operations in recent weeks and they are racing to make their goal of distributing 250,000 legal sized trout before opening day. Most snow is gone all over the state and not enough mud has been encountered to hamper the fish trucks too

Light Co.

Julie Van Damme is a medical patient at St. Francis hospital.

There have been no changes in general fishing regulations. Trout must be seven inches or longer to be legal game. Fishermen are limited to 15 a day from streams and five a day from lakes but not more than 10 pounds and one fish.

Where special experimental regulations apply on streams and special trout ponds, signs and posters give fishermen ample notice. Designated trout lakes and ponds which are governed by trout season regulations are listed by county in the fish law digest, obtainable from all license agents.

All those fishing on trout waters must have the special $1 trout stamp attached to their license, and it must be signed across the face.

Fishing licenses are another must. They will cost residents $1.50, and non-residents $3 for an annual license and $2 for one good for 10 days.

Chairman Cites Cancer Costs

Men, Time, Money Wastes Explained

"A total of 32,200 men between the age of 18 and 37 were rejected on account of cancer, and other growths by the U. S. military forces during World War II.

"On the civilian economic side the loss in wartime production due to cancer amounts to $250,000,000 annually."

These figures were cited here today by Russell Watson, county campaign chairman of the fund raising drive of the American Cancer Society now under way. The campaign will continue through this month, April having been designated Cancer Control Month by an act of Congress.

"The tenseness of today's world crisis brings home the urgency of science continuing its fight to learn the causes of cancer and to effect its control and cure," Watson declared.

"Just think what the loss of 32,200 armed men means," the chairman added. "It means enough soldiers to more than fill two complete infantry divisions of 14,477 men each. And on the economic side, the annual dollar loss in productivity through cancer would purchase 3,334,000 Garand rifles at $75 each, or 1,366 pursuit planes at $183,000 each or 1,250 medium tanks at $200,000, or three airborne divisions' equipment at about $75,000,000.

Local Losses
"Right here in our own country our losses of manpower power as well as of manpower through cancer are comparable to those throughout the nation, yet probably half of the deaths from cancer can be prevented by early detection and treatment.

"Our volunteers have a heartening story to tell concerning the progress being made by scientists employed by the American Cancer Society in their research work. This work should be supported by everybody. Nobody knows where cancer will strike next," Watson concluded, "and the dollar you give is the real ammunition our scientists must have to continue their relentless war against this terrible killer."

Potter Will Give Address

Commencement At Grand Marais May 25

GRAND MARAIS—Superintendent Neal Beaver announces that the commencement address for the Grand Marais high school class of '51 will be delivered by Congressman Charles E. Potter of Washington, D. C. The invitation was accepted tentatively when Rep. Potter attended a Republican rally in Grand Marais last fall and was confirmed by telegram early this week.

Graduation exercises will be held at the Grand Marais high school auditorium on Friday evening, May 25, at 3 p. m. It is a great honor for the smallest graduating class in Grand Marais history. Although at present the length of time Rep. Potter will visit in Grand Marais is unknown, plans are being made to include a Lake Superior trolling trip in the entertainment program. At the time of his last visit here he expressed great interest in trolling and desired to try a day of the greatly renowned sport.

Potter is dearly loved in Grand Marais because of his untiring efforts for legislation beneficial to the people of the Upper Peninsula and more particularly for his efforts in connection with the construction work, begun last year with more pending to make the harbor entrance safe in stormy weather. The pier improvements, when completed, will save many lives.

Major Leagues To Open Monday

NEW YORK—(AP)—Two tingling flag races were predicted today as major league baseball prepared to open its jubilee season Monday with a pair of games followed by a full slate of eight inaugurals on Tuesday.

Ed Lopat
The fans will be treated to few new faces, but they will see some old familiar ones at strange positions.

Washington, the nation's capital, will be the first to break away from the barrier in the American league as per custom. The Senators, under Manager Bucky Harris, will raise the curtain with the New York Yankees. A capacity crowd of 33,000, including President Harry S. Truman, is expected for the launching of the league's 51st campaign. Washington's Bob Kuzava (9-10) and New York's Eddie Lopat (18-8) are expected to get the starting assignments.

Reds And Pirates
The National league has a trail blazer of its own Monday when it begins its 76th year of operation. In the circuit's lone contest, the improved Reds take on the Pittsburgh Pirates before a tradition at Cincinnati opening day throng of about 32,000. Ewell Blackwell (17-15) is slated to pitch for the Reds. He will be opposed by Cliff Chambers (12-15).

The remaining 12 clubs get underway Tuesday with the Athletics meeting the Senators in a night contest, the first such opening in the American league. The St. Louis Cardinals set the precedent in the National last year.

The Yankees, out to win their third straight flag, may be forced to start without Phil Rizzuto, their ace shortstop and the league's most valuable player of 1950. Rizzuto is hobbled by a torn muscle in his right side. Certain to be lost for a while are pitchers Allie Reynolds and Joe Page, sidelined by damaged flippers.

Other stars who appear certain to miss the openers include George Kell, crack third baseman of the Detroit Tigers; and slugging first baseman Walt Dropo of the Boston Red Sox and Luke Easter of Cleveland. Kell has a fractured finger; Dropo a broken bone in his right wrist and Easter a wrenched left knee.

Lopez Confident
Al Lopez, new leader of the Indians, is confident his club can finish on top. The Tribe has been strengthened by the addition of freshmen outfielder Harry Simpson and Orestes Minoso.

The Red Sox, favored to grab the championship, boast a new pitcher, pulverizing lineup featuring Lou Boudreau at shortstop, Vern Stephens at third and Billy Goodman, the loop's No. 1 batter, in right field. They also have a fine pitching staff, strengthened by the addition of Bill Wight and Ray Scarborough from Chicago and Harry Taylor from St. Paul.

The Yankees may have picked out the prize rookie of them all in Mickey Mantle. The 19-year-old flash, who already is being compared to the great nitters of the game, has been a sensation this spring. A natural shortstop, he is being groomed for a spot in the outfield.

Philadelphia, Brooklyn and New York are the National league favorites to battle their way to the world series. All three teams have practically the same personnel that finished one-two-three last year.

Many In Service
Among the old faces at new positions will be Ralph Kiner, the major's home run king. The Pittsburgh slugger will attempt to make a successful switch from the outfield to first base. Another Branch Rickey project is the transformation of Pete Reiser from the outer pastures to a place behind the bat.

The Giants are attempting a noble experiment by converting pitcher Clint Hartung into an outfielder. The Cards have switched third baseman Tommy Glaviano to centerfield where he is expected to open the season.

Notables missing from last year include such players as Art Houtteman, Tigers; Curt Simmons, Phillies; Whitey Ford, Yankees; Johnny Antonelli and Del Crandall, Braves; Danny O'Connell, Pirates; Preston Ward, Cubs; Dick Weik, Indians and Dick Kokos and Owen Friend, Browns. All have been claimed by the armed forces.

Spilling The Dope

By Charlie Larson

When it comes to hospitality, the Gladstone Lions have it. Their annual recognition banquet for Gladstone players and for the Upper Peninsula "coach of the year" is one of the finest of its type in this part of the country.

The Lions don't skimp on the food (turkey and dressing are still coming out of our ears) and they always put on a good show. The trophy to the "coach of the year" is out of this world. No coach receiving it could fail to be impressed.

Thursday night's "shindig" at the Gladstone Yacht club was no exception . . . Karl Parker, Brimley coach, and his players made a big hit . . . Parker, youthful but graying around the temples, is a modest chap and gives all the credit for Brimley's two state titles to his players, the fans and the braks.

The Brimley boys are a bunch of nice-looking chaps . . . despite their having won two state titles in a row, they didn't appear to be one "smartie" in the group . . . Jim Mills, who scored 559 points this season, is surprisingly small . . . Parker gave Ed Waishkey, personable Indian boy who captained the team, much credit for the team's success . . . Parker says Waishkey is the "feeder", being content to let the other boys score the baskets . . . Mills and Waishkey both say they want to attend Michigan State.

This and that . . . Jim Ripley and George Mathison, the two "big moguls" of the U. P. Sportswriters association were much in evidence with their heads together . . . no one could figure out whether Mike Goodman brought "Cap" Goldworthy of the State police along for protection . . . or whether "Cap" just went along to be sure that Mike didn't make his getaway . . . "Doc" Kee certainly has a sharp eye for "duffy ties", especially when they are on Walt VanDeWeghe . . . as usual, "Lars" Cameron was rough on that "frail character," Elmer Peterson . . . "Lars" introduced Elmer as "president of the Perkins Timber Workers union." . . . we hope that Tom Moreau, Gladstone's captain-elect for next year, isn't as bashful on the basketball floor as he is at the banquet table . . . after Coach Parker had told about Brimley's grade school basketball program, junior high school program and lunch-hour program, Coach Keil asked: "Parker, what sort of basketball program do you have for your pre-school child?" . . . that brought down the house . . . all in all, it was an evening of good fun . . . and good food . . . and good fellowship.

Mantle Again Placed In 4-F Spot

KANSAS CITY — (AP)—Mickey Mantle, classified anew as 4-F in the draft, flew east today in hopes of playing right field for the New York Yankees.

The 19-year-old Commerce, Okla., lad, who last Wednesday was found "not acceptable" for army service by Tulsa medics, left here early this morning on a flight to New York where he was to join the world champs later today.

"I feel that I'm in good condition to play baseball and I'm going to do everything within my power to stick with the Yankees," Mantle offered. "My left leg gets a little heavy when I play doubleheaders but I believe I'm ready to go."

Pressure Wearing Off
It was a bone infection of the left leg that is believed to have led to the 4-F classification of Mantle, although the draft board didn't disclose any facts.

"If I can't make it with the Yankees I'll be happy to play at Kansas City or any other place they want to send me," Mantle declared.

He says the pressure of battling against major league hurlers is gradually wearing off, but that it still seems a bit unnatural to be playing with and against guys I've been reading about and admiring since I was a kid."

The powerfully built youngster, (5-feet 11-inches tall and 185-pounds) has had his turn at each of the three outfield spots with the Yankees this spring. He likes right field best and says he would rather play the outfield than shortstop.

Rightfield Easiest
"Since I've been shifted to right field I believe that's the easiest spot on the team," Mantle said. "Of course, I still have plenty to learn out there."

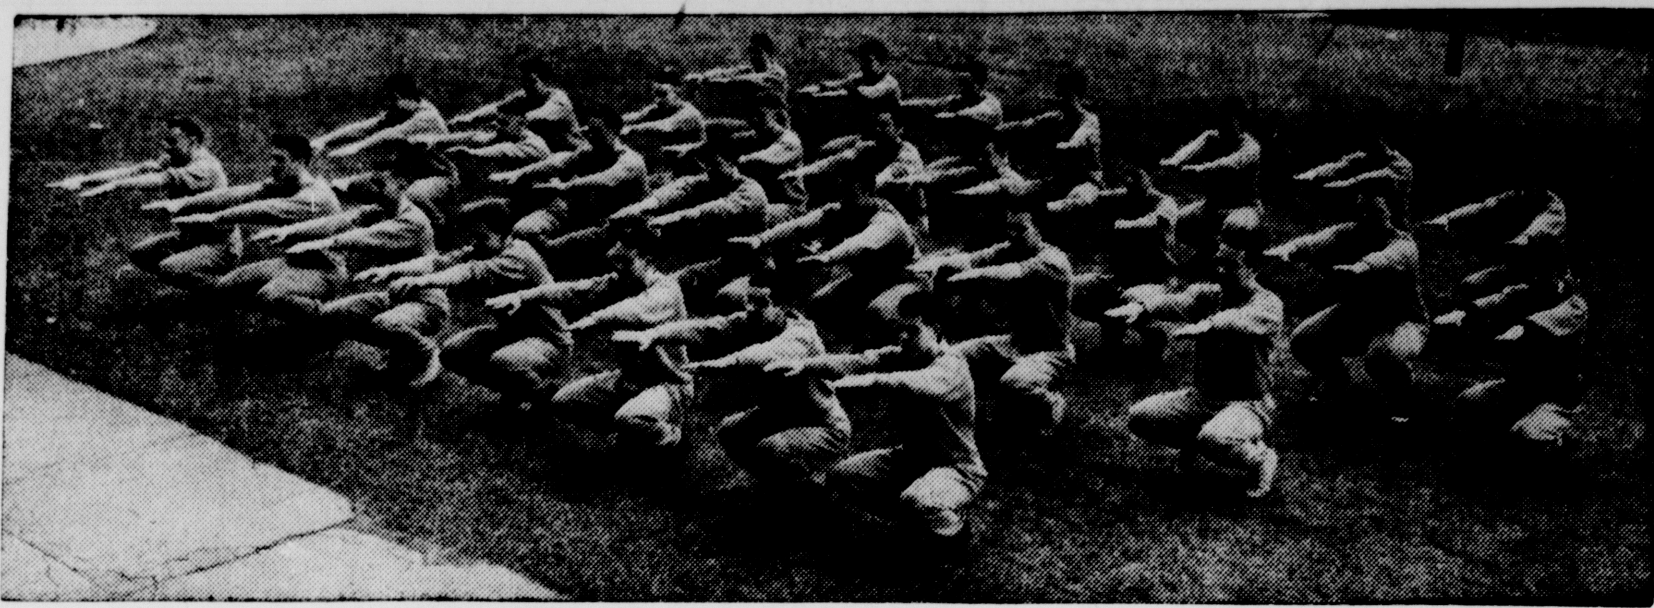

Mantle hasn't noticed "too much difference" in major league pitching during spring training and the Western association last season "except they throw more curves at you and the defense plays the batter better."

Mickey says he plans to marry hometown sweetheart Merlyn Johnson of Commerce "after" he sees what happens to him with the Yankees.

"I'm not getting married until after the major league cutting down date in mid-June," Mantle said.

Nine Lettermen Among Eskymo Track Hopefuls

Nine lettermen are among the 31 candidates for the Escanaba high school 1951 track squad working out indoors and outdoors (when the weather permits) under coaches Steve Baltic and Henry Wylie.

A heavy track schedule has been lined up for the team this year, starting with an informal meet here with Stephenson on April 27. This will be followed by a dual meet with Marquette May 5 and a triangular meet at Menominee with Menominee and Marinette on May 12.

The Upper Peninsula regional meet will be held here May 19 and the Upper Peninsula finals will be held here May 26. The season winds up May 30 at Marquette's relay carnival.

The Eskymos finished second in the U. P. meet at Houghton last year.

Lettermen back this year include seniors Dick Cota, distance; Dick Shomin, hurdles, high jump and shot; Bill Haye, dash; John Prokos, pole vault; Mert McRae, dash, and Dave Zerbel, distance; and juniors Tom Smith, hurdles; Glenn Larsen, distance, and Bill Fallmer, distance.

Other seniors working out are Dick Erickson, Bert Krueger, Tom Schwalbach and Bob St. Martin. Juniors include Francis Barber, Ray Richards, Bob Vadenais, Cleve Moore, Dave Gasman, John Connolly, Gerald Gardner, Al Villeneuve, Casper Bartley and Brian Corcoran.

Sophomore prospects include Jim McCormick, Fred Paulson,

Bruce Jesson, Dick Carlson, Wayne Carter, Bob Nelson, Harlan Yelland and Gerald Nichol. Roy Starrine is student manager.

Tigers 'Plain Lousy,' Says Rolfe

LOUISVILLE, Ky. — (AP)—Detroit Tiger General Manager Billy Evans was talking on the telephone to Manager Red Rolfe. "How're they doing?" he asked.

"Not so good," said Red, "in fact, just plain lousy."

"Worse than they were when I saw you in Florida?" Billy asked.

"Afraid so," Red ruefully admitted.

"I didn't think it possible," Billy said.

And that, while spoken in jest, about summarizes the exhibition season record for the hapless Bengals. They open their American league season in Detroit's Briggs stadium Tuesday against Cleveland.

Their mark to date is six wins in 20 starts although the last time they beat minor league Birmingham, 11 to 8.

But even then they showed signs of needing a lot more work before the season opener. They had hoped to get it during a two-game series here today and Sunday with the Louisville Colonels.

Only they're running into bad luck there, too.

Wet grounds Friday caused the cancellation of another intensive practice session, and the weather prediction for Friday was sleet and snow. That could mean calling off the exhibition game.

Berry Is Hot
And if that's the case, it would mean that Rolfe has only the Sunday game and a workout Monday in Detroit before engaging the power-loaded Indians.

He still is counting on lefty Hal Newhouser to open the two game series and may follow with another southpaw, Ted Gray.

Neither has been particularly effective this spring. Newhouser has been handicapped by a sore foot and now a bruised finger, suffered against Birmingham.

It still is hoped that George Kell, stellar third baseman, will be ready for Cleveland although utility infielder Neil Berry has been filling his place more than adequately.

Since taking over for Kell, who suffered a spiked hand, Berry has collected 11 hits in five games for a .407 average. He also has been turning in some sensational catches.

His batting average is tops for the Tigers, and he's just about the only bright spot in the whole lineup.

Locke Snubs U. S. For English Meet
JOHANNESBURG, South Africa — (AP) — Bobby Locke, South African golfer, says he doesn't plan on playing in the United States open golf tournament at the Oakland hills course, Birmingham, Mich., in June.

Instead, he says, he'll fly to England to play in the Penfold tournament at Bournemouth. And after that, "I will concentrate on practice to defend my British open title at Portrush."

65 Seek Manistique Track Team Posts

MANISTIQUE — Sixty-five boys are out for the Manistique high school track and field team, Coach William J. Cook said today.

The group includes only one letterman, Don Quick, mile runner. Others are either newcomers to track and field events or boys who worked out last year but failed to earn a letter in inter-city competition.

Running time trials will probably be held late next week.

The first inter-city meet has tentatively been set for April 28 against Newberry here, if track and weather conditions permit. This will be a warm-up affair for the Great Lakes Conference track and field event here Saturday, May 12.

The district meet has been set for May 19 but the place is not yet definite. Participants in the district event will have a chance to qualify for the finals later at Escanaba.

Cook reported that Cooks high school may send several boys to take part in the Newberry-Manistique. This would be the first time the Inwood school has participated in inter-city competition in running or field contests, he said.

Montreal Fights Leafs' Ice Jinx

'What's The Use?' Asks Coach Irvin

TORONTO — (AP)—The Montreal Canadiens, who have been trying unsuccessfully for their first victory on Toronto ice since last November, will make another attempt tonight in the Stanley hockey cup playoffs.

Should the Canadiens miss this time—their ninth attempt of the season—it could mean they won't get another chance until next fall.

The Canadiens trail the Toronto Maple Leafs 1-0 in their best-of-seven series for the Stanley cup, the result of a 3-2 overtime setback at Maple Leaf gardens last Wednesday.

A loss here tonight would mean Montreal would have to win at least one of its home-ice engagements next week to bring the series back to Toronto.

Dick Irvin, Montreal coach, was hopeful.

"We've lost eight games on Toronto ice this season," he said, "but we're going to win one. It may be the one that will win the cup."

"But what's the use?" Irvin said. "The Leafs are too lucky against us. They just throw the puck at the net and in it goes."

Irvin indicated he had only one player worry—Doug Harvey. The star defenseman is bothered with a battered knee and is a doubtful starter.

Poor Sweeney; He Will Miss Tigers
DETROIT — (AP)—The Detroit Tigers will have to go on without Sweeney—for 30 days at least.

Sweeney, Wilbert Sweeney, that is, is in the Detroit House of Correction and will miss the Tuesday season opener.

It seems that suspense of waiting was too much for Wilbert and he had a drink or six. Then he was picked up for drunkenness.

So recorder's Judge W. McKay Skillman, after viewing a long record, sent him up for 30 days.

Only last Tuesday Sweeney was brought before another Judge, Paul E. Krause, on the same charge. But just before sentencing, he said:

"Don't send me up judge. I've got to catch that baseball opener. Haven't missed one in 10 years."

Judge Krause, a baseball fan, gave in, but with "doubts." Next time Sweeney's up, he said, "you'll get 90 days."

After ordering the 30-day term Judge Skillman remarked: "I wouldn't want him to miss most of the season."

The glum Sweeney, who has spent 2,745 days in jail in 31 years, said:

"I hope they have a good radio at the House of Correction."

DOUBLE WIN
DETROIT — (AP)—The University of Detroit golf team secured a double win in a triangular golf meet here Friday. The Titans bested Western Michigan 8-4. Medalist honors went to Don Nelson of Detroit with a 74. Toledo's Don Smith had a 76 and the Bronco's Don Sprague 78.

Boston Likes Looks Of Lou

(By The Associated Press)
So this is Lou Boudreau. Not bad. A double and two singles. Not bad, at all.

Red Sox fans eyed the new Boston shortstop. It was his first game before the home folks, and they like what they saw.

But anybody who can keep a .312 hitter (Johnny Pesky) on the bench must be good. Boudreau connected for three hits yesterday as the Red Sox whipped the Braves, 12-8.

But the real fans saw beyond this: They saw Boudreau making that clutch play; they saw him delivering that money hit; they saw him as the take-charge guy, the unofficial field leader.

Lou Boudreau is a "must year" year for the Sox. Win or lose is the order. And the guy they're turning to is the 32-year-old former boy manager of the Cleveland Indians.

The slow-moving but quick-thinking Boudreau has been sweating hard all spring. His fierce pride and will-to-win have driven him to a regular's job, instead of the utility slot he was ticketed for.

The $65,000 beauty drove out a three-run single in the ninth inning to supply the Red Sox winning margin. It gave Charlie Stobbs, a five-hit pitcher for four innings, the victory.

Two Run Homer
Ted Williams clubbed a two-run homer in the first inning.

This came before the Braves jammed across five runs against Mel Parnell in the same frame. However, five-run rallies in the seventh and ninth innings overcame this big lead.

At Yankee stadium, Pee Wee Reese's three-run homer off Ed Lopat in the fifth inning sparked Brooklyn to a 6-6 victory over the New York Yankees. Yankee ace Vic Raschi was hit hard in three innings, yielding five hits, three walks and four runs.

At Philadelphia, Sam Chapman hit a home run—his fifth in as many days—to back up some fifty pichting by Bobby Shantz and Hank Wyse as the A's trimmed the Phillies, 7-2.

In other games, the New York Giants and Cleveland Indians battled to a 6-6, nine-inning tie, and the Washington Senators routed Baltimore, 14-7. The Giants-Cleveland game was delayed for 25 minutes by a grass fire behind the rightfield fence at Norfolk, Va.

Koceski Stars As Wolverines Win

LEXINGTON, Va. — (AP)—Laruping Leo Koceski, the University of Michigan's star fielder, had himself a big day here Friday as the Wolverines downed Virginia Military institute in baseball, 22 to 3.

Koceski, halfback on the Michigan football team, banged out four hits in seven times at bat. One was a double.

The Kaydets really lost the game in the second inning when they had five errors. That, plus two walks and three Michigan hits, allowed eight runs to come in. All told, VMI had 12 errors.

Duane Hegedon started for Michigan but retired after four innings with a 10-0 lead. He gave up only two hits.

Albion Trackmen Swamp Dales, Adrian

ALBION — (AP)—It looks like Albion college, the pacesetter in track in MIAA last year, is out for a repeat.

The Britons rolled up 102 5/6 points here Friday in running away with a triangular track meet with Hillsdale and Adrian. The Dales had 37 1/6 points and the Bulldogs, 19.

Albion had 11 first, including three by sprinter Jack Sharp and two by weight tosser John Haas.

BASE LEADS WAY
DALLAS — (AP)—A small but star-studded field starts play this afternoon in the 144-hole women's cross-country weathervane golf tournament. Defending Champion Babe Didrikson Zaharias leads the way into the first of two 18-hole rounds that will serve as one-fourth of the 5,000-mile links event.

Business Paying More For Money

Bonds Bear Higher Interest Rates

By ROGER W. BABSON
NEW YORK—New issues of corporate bonds bearing the highest interest rates since the late 1930's have just made the financial headlines. Business is paying more for its money, as well as for its wages and materials.

Just as the old bellied ram leads the rest of the flock, so does the government bond market point the way for corporate bond prices. About a month ago it was announced that the feud between the U. S. Treasury and the Federal Reserve had been ended. Both parties to the long disagreement had "reached full accord." Now, the thing upon which they had agreed was that a new issue of long-term government bonds should bear 2 3/4 per cent interest instead of the 2 1/2 per cent figure that had been the going rate for similar issues.

Immediately a tremor ran through the financial world. As it became clear that the Federal Reserve had really "won the argument" over raising interest rates, government bond prices softened. At the same time, corporate bonds began a price decline that is still in progress. Commercial bankers became frightened and have since been casting an increasingly wary eye at all applications for loans. Even the stock market has lost its pep. A glance at the course of the popular stock "averages" will show you that, since early March, stocks have been reactionary. That is why I say: Watch government bond prices; they are the bellwether for finance in general and for the bond market in particular.

Effects On Stocks
Going back through the years, you will find that a persistent and drawn-out decline in bond prices is frequently followed by a good-sized slump in stocks. Studies show that the time lag between the fall in bonds and the later descent in stock prices varies widely. Sometimes stocks follow bonds down only a few weeks later. At other times, close to two years have passed before stocks have taken a tumble. The reasons for this are not hard to find. As bond prices fall, the yield therefrom rises and narrows the gap between the return on bonds and the income from stocks. If the old relationship between the two is to be re-established, stock prices must decline. Only during periods of feverish speculative activity are buyers willing to overlook the need for getting a considerably bigger income from stocks, as compared to bonds, to "pay them back" for the greater risk that stocks carry.

"Different This Time"
However, some of my friends tell me that it is going to be "different this time!" They point out that the spread between stock and bond yields, even after the recent rise in the latter, is much greater than usually exists. Therefore, they say, the return on bonds could rise quite a bit higher without greatly disturbing stock prices. They also cite the fact that very few stocks are being carried on borrowed money and that higher interest rates will not cause any amount of selling on that score.

These objectors may, of course, be right. But, I should like to leave this thought with you: When storm signals are flying, wise skippers head them. Likewise, when old-time financial warnings appear, wise investors will diversify their funds carefully among sound well-selected common stocks, and hold a sizable reserve in cash and high-grade short-term bonds against an "unexpected" shift in the trend.

Advice On Bonds
My father told me years ago, "Never send a boy on a man's errand!" This advice fits today's bond buyer. Whatever you do, don't build an investment reserve of all long-maturity bonds, no matter how high the quality. A one-per-cent rise in interest rates can wipe out a number of years' income in the shape of a price fall in your long-term bonds. That is a risk you should avoid at all costs. In bond buying, stick to short-term governments, good convertible corporation bonds, and tax exempts that you can hold to maturity.

Municipal Employees Ask 15-Cent Hourly Raise In Detroit

DETROIT—(AP)—Municipal employees affiliated with the CIO want an hourly pay boost of 15 cents—twice what Mayor Albert E. Cobo has recommended for them.

Joseph Bogan, representing the CIO government and civic employees organizing committee, appeared before the city council with the demand.

He also asked an annual boost of $312 for salaried workers. A representative of the independent Detroit municipal employees association also asked a flat increase of $300 a year for all city workers.

Cobo had suggested a seven and a half cent hourly raise, which he said would cost the city an additional $4,900,000. Bogan said the higher boost would mean an annual expenditure of $10,000,000.

IT'S SO NICE TO BE THE MAN AROUND THE HOUSE? — It has some disadvantages, living with seven pretty women, thinks Bill Phipps of Los Angeles (fifth from left in line for the bathroom). Bill and a dog named Cyano (second from left) share a rooming house with the seven gals and it's all perfectly okay, since a housemother takes care of the whole brood. The seven ladies in the bathroom line are: Lucille Dellano, Janet Stewart, Frances Conley, Diana Marivsky, Maxine Cross, Virginia and Carol Price.

U. S. Must Look Out For New Red Moves In Asia

By LEON DENNEN

NEA Staff Correspondent
WASHINGTON—(NEA)—Having dismissed General MacArthur, American military and policy-making officials must now guard against Moscow being encouraged to launch a new series of limited aggressions in Asia this Spring.

Formosa, Indo-China, Hong Kong, Thailand, Malaya and Burma may become active fronts for Soviet-sponsored revolutionary "liberation," according to information supplied to Allied intelligence by reliable sources.

MacArthur is well aware that Stalin has always favored bringing the revolution first to the "oppressed colonial countries" of Asia. The entire ideological struggle between Stalin and Leon Trotsky centered on the question whether Asia or the West was ripe for Communist conquest.

The Russians saw MacArthur as a symbol of the view that Russia should be checked in the Far East. Thus his removal is seen as a possible incitement of Russia to Spring aggressions—just as our announced policy of non-aggression in Korea tripped off the aggression by North Korea last June.

Trotsky favored concentrating Communist efforts in Europe. He lost out and was subsequently assassinated by a Soviet agent in his Mexican exile. But Stalin, following in the footsteps of his master, Lenin, was always of the view that a revolution can be successful only in countries where "the links in the capitalist chain were the weakest." This would apply to the underdeveloped Asian countries.

Pre-revolutionary Czarist policy, too, was always based on the principle that in order for Russia to defeat the Western Powers in Europe they must first be weakened or defeated in Asia. Stalin is thus carrying on where the Czars left off.

A large part of Russia's heavy industry (including atomic plants) Gov. Williams Urged To Keep Conservation Commissioner McLouth

LANSING — (AP) — The entire Democratic minority in the Senate Friday urged Governor Williams to reappoint Donald B. McLouth of Detroit, a Republican, to the state conservation commission.

The five Democratic senators signed a request to that effect. Senator Charles S. Blomdy (D-Detroit), the Democratic floor leader, sent Williams a telegram which said:

"Knowing full well that Mr. McLouth is a Republican, I feel that by reappointing him, you will help to create a friendly feeling among a majority of the members of the legislature and will bring about the bipartisanism of which you so often speak."

Blomdy lauded McLouth's record as a member of the commission.

New York Central Runs Ultra-Modern Train To Bay City

DETROIT—(AP)—The New York Central Railroad announced it will operate a new, ultra-modern one-car train on its Detroit to Bay City run starting April 29.

Named the "Beeline," the single-car train is of the reversible type with a 275 horsepower diesel engine at either end.

The Beeline, replacing the present steam train, will cruise at 70 miles an hour and cut the running time between Detroit and Bay City by 31 minutes.

Billy Mitchell Case Recalled

Ouster Similar To MacArthur's

By RICHARD KLEINER

NEA Staff Correspondent
Like Gen. Douglas MacArthur, Brig. Gen. Billy Mitchell said what he thought about the way the government was running something he felt strongly about. And, like MacArthur, it cost him his job.

But Mitchell's inability to keep quiet also brought him a court-martial and suspension from the service.

In the 1920s, the Billy Mitchell case was a shocking event. He was one of the greatest heroes of World War I, a man who had captured public fancy. Yet he was nailed before a court martial charged with violating the 96th Article of War.

He was charged with acting "to the prejudice of good order and military discipline." His trial, subsequent sentence and suspension all resulted from his intense feelings about his country and his service which he, like MacArthur, loved.

Mitchell served with glory in the first war. He was the first airman to fly over Germany, chief of the AEF's air service, temporary commander of all the Allied air services. After the war, he was given a four-year appointment, with the rank of brigadier-general, as assistant chief of the Army Air Service.

During those four years, he continually spoke and wrote and advocated stronger air power. It was his contention that a "bombing airplane" was tactically superior to a battleship. He advocated a unified air service and tore into the Army and Navy air policies.

The Army General Staff was perpetually at odds with the dynamic Mitchell. When his appointment ran out, Secretary of War John W. Weeks wrote a recommendation to President Coolidge that read, in part: "Gen. Mitchell's whole course has been so lawless, so contrary to the building up of an efficient organization, so lacking in team work, so indicative of a desire for publicity at the expense of everyone with whom he is associated, that his actions make him unfit for a high administrative position."

Coolidge let Mitchell revert to his permanent rank of colonel. He was exiled to the 8th Corps Area at San Antonio, but the obvious attempt to sidetrack and silence him failed.

When the dirigible Shenandoah was destroyed, Mitchell said the disaster was the result of "incompetence, criminal negligence and almost treasonable administration of the national defense by

That statement brought the court martial.

Mitchell, in a speech to the judges, said the trial was "the culmination of the efforts of the general staff of the Army and the general board of the Navy to depreciate the value of air power." For seven weeks, the court martial heard evidence. They heard Mitchell described as a "self-advertising demagog" and likened to Aaron Burr. Finally, he was sentenced—the court said it was lenient because of his military record—to suspension from the service for five years and forfeiture of all pay and allowances. Coolidge upheld the sentence, although he modified it to give Mitchell half-pay.

Until his death in 1936, Mitchell kept on talking. Time has proven that he was right in his beliefs about the value of air power. But his right to talk with such fervor is still debated, as it was in the days of the court martial.
